

About Us

Wednesday, 15 August 2007

Last Updated Thursday, 16 August 2007

Article Authors is comprised of many different and very talented writers - a majority are from the U.S and several are from the U.K. This tight knit group of writers has formed a solid team over the course of the past 2 years and has surpassed any and every expectation put forth to them. Article Authors is different from any other copywriting organization in the sense that although the writers are freelance professionals, every project has a goal and a director (project manager) dictating how that goal gets met and in what timeframe. Gone are the days where your article might get written by someone in a third world country living off peanuts and producing sub standard text. Although by all appearances what you receive LOOKS like english, it reads somewhat differently than Americanized or proper U.K english. We set the standard for what you should come to expect from copywriters. With 100's of clients, and 1000's of content pages produced, our history and reputation speaks for itself.

From your article order intake, to assigning out the authors to your content, and all the way to final delivery after proofing, your orders are handled with extreme care. We guarantee a 100% unique content generation to satisfy your expectations of getting your money's worth. We encourage all of our clients to utilize copyscape and google to ensure that what they are receiving is truly unique and original. Our good name and business depends on that assertion. We wouldn't be in business today if we practiced any differently.

ArticleAuthors is headquartered out of Houston Texas, and has team members located throughout the U.S, Canada and in the U.K. We proudly service webmasters of all backgrounds worldwide and continue to produce content for marketing corporations and knowledge departments on a monthly, weekly, and daily time schedule. Contact us today to see how we can help you meet your content needs!